

Bucks Point handkerchief

Sr. Madeleine Cleverly

The handkerchief pattern is Buckinghamshire (Bucks Point) 19th c. Wedding Bells pattern. My lace teacher offered it as a possible pattern so I could practice the skill of adding in and taking out bobbins around the corner.

Along the way, its destiny became apparent. In June, it became a gift for an old friend who – single at 57 – was graduating from a Masters in Social Work program. The reception resembled a wedding reception so the choice of pattern was perfect. It now graces a coffee table with a lovely vase and pink silk flowers.
